

Service Providers & Care Givers:

Do you know a senior who might be in trouble?

Montana Legal Services Association has developed an online

Elder Abuse Risk Detector Tool

Access the Risk Detector here: www.mtlsa.org/risk-detector

You can use it today - with a client who may be at risk, or just to test it out.

The Risk Detector helps service providers check in with homebound elderly or others who might need help flagging legal problems. The tool issue-spots in the areas of consumer debt, housing, financial exploitation, health care, and abuse & neglect.

The Risk Detector supports service providers while they're meeting with a senior citizen (the client) and trying to learn of potential legal issues and other problems that the client may be facing. At the end of the session, this system produces a Risk Assessment Report that estimates the risk the client faces, and provides tailored guidance on ways to assist the client based on the client's particular situation.

This system does not provide legal advice and its use does not form an attorney-client relationship between any parties. The tool can be used by service providers, who can then (with express client permission) share the generated report with MLSA or other attorneys in order to provide better legal assistance to their clients.

Confidentiality: MLSA does not receive the Risk Assessment Report or any other client information entered into the tool. MLSA only receives a notification that a report was completed, and the name of the service provider who completed the report.

Want to test it out? You can try out the Risk Detector on a fictional client just to see how it works.

QUESTIONS? If you have questions or would like a brief tutorial over the phone, contact Melissa Fisher, MLSA Project Coordinator, at 406-543-8343 x 221 or mfisher@mtlsa.org.

This tool was developed in partnership with Pro Bono Net and Neotalogic.
